PARISH MISSION STATEMENT:

Located in the heart of the City of Lansing, the Church of the Resurrection exists to help everyone in our parish family live in the light and hope of the Resurrection. Encouraged by our experience of God's love, we help others come to know and love Jesus in a personal way. Guided by God's truth, we offer answers to life's real challenges. Inspired by the Holy Spirit, we help each other become mature disciples of Christ who will utilize our gifts to spread the Good News of Jesus in word and deed.

Happy Catholic Schools Week!

As pastor, I am especially grateful for the great support the parish has long provided for our own school, and I am indebted to our Jacob Allstott, Chris Gates, and the excellent faculty and staff who make our school the wonderful place of social, academic, and spiritual formation that it is. As it says on our school letterhead, we've been "forming disciples of Christ since 1926." What a great legacy of faith we have! Thank you for your continuing support of our parish and the school.

Lansing Catholic High School

We are grateful to be able to partner with LCHS, and ask for God's continued blessings upon the excellent team the Lord has called to serve us and families from around the Lansing area. What was originally was "Gabriels High School" is still our Catholic High School. Not just ours, of course. It draws from all the area parishes.

Special Masses This Week

Because this is Catholic Schools Week, we will add morning Masses on Tuesday and Wednesday at 8:15 a.m.

Offertory Updates

Beginning this week, we will provide a monthly update and year to date numbers for the budgeted offertory and the actual offertory. As you will see, we are tracking well for offertory, thanks to your generosity. Thank you!

"Learning in Wartime" Excerpts

At the Sunday Masses last week, I referenced an essay by C.S. Lewis. I'm placing those few sentences in a larger excerpt from the famous essay by C.S. Lewis, which was given on October 22, 1939 in St. Mary the Virgin Church in Oxford.

Perhaps it may be useful to mention the three mental exercises which may serve as defenses against the three enemies which war raises up against the scholar. The first enemy is excitement—the tendency to think and feel about the war when we had intended to think about our work. The best defense is a recognition that in this, as in everything else, the war has not really raised up a new enemy but only aggravated an old one. There are always plenty of rivals to our work. We are always falling in love or quarreling, looking for jobs or fearing to lose them, getting ill and recovering, following public affairs. If we let ourselves, we shall always be waiting for some distraction or other to end before we can really get down to our work. The only people who achieve much are those who want knowledge so badly that they seek it while the conditions are still unfavorable. Favorable conditions never come. There are, of course, moments when the pressure of the excitement is so great that any superhuman self-control could not resist it. They come both in war and peace. We must do the best we can.

The second enemy is frustration—the feeling that we shall not have time to finish. If I say to you that no one has time to finish, that the longest human life leaves a man, in any branch of learning, a beginner, I shall seem to you to be saying something quite academic and theoretical. You would be surprised if you knew how soon one begins to feel the shortness of the tether: of how many things, even in middle life, we have to say "No time for that", "Too late now", and "Not for me". But Nature herself forbids you to share that experience. A more Christian attitude, which can be attained at any age, is that of leaving futurity in God's hands. We may as well, for God will certainly retain it whether we leave it to Him or not. Never, in peace or war, commit your virtue or your happiness to the future. Happy work is best done by the man who takes his long-term plans somewhat lightly and works from moment to moment "as to the Lord". It is only our daily bread that we are encouraged to ask for. The present is the only time in which any duty can be done or any grace received. . . .

. . . Yet war does do something to death. It forces us to remember it. The only reason why the cancer at sixty or the paralysis at seventy-five do not bother us is that we forget them. War makes death real to us, and that would have been regarded as one of its blessings by most of the great Christians of the past. They thought it good for us to be always aware of our mortality. I am inclined to think they were right. All the animal life in us, all schemes of happiness that centred in this world, were always doomed to a final frustration. In ordinary times only a wise man can realise it. Now the stupidest of us knows. We see unmistakably the sort of universe in which we have all along been living, and must come to terms with it. If we had foolish un-Christian hopes about human culture, they are now shattered. If we thought we were building up a heaven on earth, if we looked for something that would turn the present world from a place of pilgrimage into a permanent city satisfying the soul of man, we are disillusioned, and not a moment too soon. But if we thought that for some souls, and at some times, the life of learning, humbly offered to God, was, in its own small way, one of the appointed approaches to the Divine reality and the Divine beauty which we hope to enjoy hereafter, we can think so still.

In light of this lecture, we do well to always remember our own impending death, however remote that might be, with the goal of living well each and every day. And let us never defer our virtue or our happiness to the future, but seek always to make the most of every moment the Lord graciously gives us.

Seeking with you to live for God's glory,

Father Steve

Did You Know?

You have read in an earlier article how the Knights are providing humanitarian aid to those in need in Ukraine as well as protecting Ukrainian women and girls from human trafficking. Another urgent need in Ukraine is clearing areas of deadly explosives to protect civilians. In response, the Supreme Council engaged with trusted partners, having previously collaborated on a similar initiative in the Middle East: a Slovenian nonprofit organization dedicated to clearing landmines and unexploded shells; and an organization established by U.S. veterans who are expert educators in unexploded ordinance risks.

RESURRECTION

Catholic Schools Week & Opportunities to Support the School

As we approach Catholic Schools week, we are grateful for the community of faith that surrounds our school. We are very blessed at Resurrection School. We have Christ in the Eucharist, The Word of God in the Scriptures, the wisdom of ages in the Church Fathers, the committed witness of religious life in Bishop Boyea, Fr. Steve and the Dominican Sisters, the faithful prayers and support of parishioners and alumni, the trusted partnership of parents, the tireless efforts of teachers and staff, and the response of faith, hope and love in our children. All of these levels are vital to the success of our Catholic School, and again, we are so grateful for the great cloud of witnesses that surrounds Resurrection School!

Please join us in person or through the live-stream channel for Mass next week. We will celebrate Mass at 8:15 AM all five days next week because the Eucharist is "the source and summit of the whole Christian life." (CCC 1324, via Pope St. Paul VI) We will also unify our gratitude for this community of faith with the Sacrifice of the Mass. There will also be some special events in the afternoons. Parents should check the schedule on School Speak for those times.

I also want to update the parish on the progress we have made toward our goal for annual school donations. This has traditionally been called the "Green Envelope" because parishioners have made direct gifts to the school through a green envelope that comes with the offertory envelopes. The direct gifts to the school are an important way for parishioners, alumni, and extended family/friends to come along side our school families and support the ministry of Resurrection School. We are currently just under half way toward our goal of raising $100,000. If you or someone you know is interested in making a one-time gift or a recurring gift, please use this link to our ParishSoft Online Giving page. Just click on the type of gift to be made and the fund for school donations.

We are extremely grateful for those who are able to make financial gifts to the school. These gifts allow us to provide scholarships and affordable tuition to our families. So thank you to those who are able to make financial gifts. However, I also want to thank those who consistently fast and pray for our students, families, and staff. We sincerely need both the spiritual and material support of our community in order to accomplish the good that God-wills for and through our school. We could not provide this ministry without you.

May God bless you and all those you love!

Pax Christi,

Jacob Allstott
