Diocesan Services Appeal 2025

Each year, we have the opportunity to partner with Catholics throughout the diocese to support the work of the Diocesan Center, the Diocese of Lansing Curia. I'm very grateful this year for the tremendous help that the diocese was in helping us get approvals for the renovation of our church, as well as for the various offices downtown that help us fulfill the Mission of the Church more effectively. As we prayerfully consider supporting the annual appeal, let me encourage everyone to recall the personal blessings we have received, and the ways the Lord is calling us to unite those blessings with our Lord Jesus Christ and his sacrifice on the altar, and to be thankful. One way to express our gratitude and fulfill our call to witness is by supporting the 2025 Diocesan Services Appeal (DSA). This year's DSA theme, "You Are My Chosen Witnesses," draws from the words of the Prophet Isaiah. These words remind us that we are called to actively witness God's love and mercy in our lives. This calling invites us to proclaim His truth and share His faithfulness with the world.

The DSA is a beautiful opportunity to enrich our offerings by generously supporting the missions and ministries of the Church within our community and across the Diocese of Lansing. These contributions play a vital role in the corporal and spiritual works of mercy carried out by the Church. Through your generosity, we bear witness to our faith, demonstrating charity and sacrifice as a reflection of God's love.

I invite you to prayerfully consider making a DSA contribution this year. Whether it's your first time giving or you've supported the DSA in the past, please know that your gift—no matter the size—is deeply appreciated.

Our parish goal this year is $117,184. As I've said in past years, I would love to have everyone in the parish who support us make some gift, which helps us show support of the work that Bishop Boyea and his wonderful staff have been doing to support our ministry and the Mission of the Church throughout the diocese. If you would, please prayerfully consider making a DSA contribution this year. And if you have given in previous years, thank you! Your contribution is valued no matter the size. Next weekend, we will be invited to make a pledge. Please pray about your gift. I will do the same.

Psalm 1 and Psalm 73

Last weekend, I preached about the Responsorial Psalm which echoed what we heard about a tree planted by the water in the first reading, from Jeremiah. Our Psalm this past Sunday, Psalm 1, includes the following:

Blessed the man who follows not the counsel of the wicked, nor walks in the way of sinners, nor sits in the company of the insolent, but delights in the law of the LORD and meditates on his law day and night. He is like a tree planted near running water, that yields its fruit in due season, and whose leaves never fade. Whatever he does, prospers. Not so the wicked, not so; they are like chaff which the wind drives away. For the LORD watches over the way of the just, but the way of the wicked vanishes.

Good things happen for those who trust the Lord, bad things for those who flout the law. Obviously enough, this is not what we observe when we look around us with the eyes of our humanity in this world. We see this principle at work in many places and times, but when we are suffering, we often look at those who flout the Lord and the law and they seem to prosper. As I've been saying often over the last few years, we need to see our lives and the circumstances in our world from the perspective of eternity. At some of the Masses, I mentioned that Psalm 37 and Psalm 73 are great texts to pray with when we find ourselves doubting God's promises or the "justice" of God in our world. I encourage everyone to read both Psalms 37 & 73 in their entirety. Here are some excerpts from Psalm 73:

How good God is to the upright, to those who are pure of heart! 2But, as for me, my feet had almost stumbled; my steps had nearly slipped, 3because I was envious of the arrogant when I saw the prosperity of the wicked. 4For they suffer no pain; their bodies are healthy and sleek. 5They are free of the burdens of life; they are not afflicted like others. 6Thus pride adorns them as a necklace; violence clothes them as a robe. . . 13Is it in vain that I have kept my heart pure, washed my hands in innocence? 14For I am afflicted day after day, chastised every morning. 15Had I thought, "I will speak as they do," I would have betrayed this generation of your children. 16Though I tried to understand all this, it was too difficult for me, 17till I entered the sanctuary of God and came to understand their end. 18You set them, indeed, on a slippery road; you hurl them down to ruin. 19How suddenly they are devastated; utterly undone by disaster! 20They are like a dream after waking, Lord, dismissed like shadows when you arise.

The upshot of these promises (and all those promises we find in scripture) are that we need to trust and believe. That's because we are playing, under God's sovereignty, the very long game. We Christians need to see that our suffering is part of the Lord's work in our midst, and the Lord invites us to join our sufferings to those of Christ, as the Lord works to shape in us the image of Jesus in our own unique form. This Sunday in our Gospel, we continue to hear the counter-intuitive call from Jesus to love our enemies. His profound moral teaching contradicts the principles of the world and the flesh. Let me encourage us all. Whenever we wrestle with the Lord's promises or teachings, we must take these questions and our wrestling to prayer with the Lord, and let the Lord speak to us. As we go, let us pray with others, trusting that the Lord will eventually, at least, bring about the ultimate justice. Let us never cease trusting and obeying the Lord, come what may, whatever may.

With prayers for increased faith for us all,

Father Steve
