Half and Half from Msgr. Gary Smetanka

Thank you for your prayers during the three days 175 Archdiocesan priests meet for three full days at Sacred Heart Major Seminary for our Pastorate Discernment Workshops. These were great days filled with prayers, honest discussion, and some difficult challenges. Through it all, the Holy Spirit was definitely with us as time went on as there was a softening of hearts and an openness of understanding what needed to be done...so we don't go through this again in 5 or 7 years.

What was this all about? It was the first big step of restructuring the pastorates in the Archdiocese. (The "downtown" offices, or the Curia, will also be undergoing their own evaluation and restructuring in the months ahead."). We dealt with the facts: declining Catholics in the AoD, declining Sunday Mass participation, fewer priests in the next five and ten years, and the burden of many buildings and structures. We look forward to restructure our parishes to have more vibrant and healthier parishes, being good stewards of all of the resources provided us, and for healthier and more vibrant priests in our parishes!

The priests were divided up into 15 planning areas, being a part of the area of one's present assignment. Ultimately, each planning group was to come up with 2 or 3 proposed pastorates, focused on mission and the pastoral care of the people and less on buildings. A pastorate might be one parish and one worship site. It might be one parish with maybe two or three worship sites. It might be one parish with more than three worship sites. A future pastorate might include five "parishes" that we presently know but only two or three of those sites will have Sunday Mass(es). We were given parameters of how many total number of priests would be available to the planning area and how many Sunday Masses (Saturday vigil and Sunday morning) would be allowed. A pastorate might have 3 or 4 priests to take care of the needs of those churches. We also looked at the seating capacity of the area church buildings and the current "head counts" from last October as well as five years ago. As expected, a church could reduce their Sunday Masses by one or two Masses given the total Sunday Mass participants. For example, if a church can hold 400 people and a total of 700 people presently attend Sunday Mass, the church only needs two Masses and not the four they presently have. It is also considering the canon law restriction that a priest can not say more than three Masses per Sunday. As you can see, it was a challenging task, having to admit future limitations and restrictions.

So what was decided? Nothing was decided!! Various pastorate models, with how many priests and Masses per weekend, were proposed for each area. Those will then be looked at, and tweaked, by a few more groups of people over the course of the next months. Parishioners will have their two listening sessions with these proposed models in May and June. Ultimately, final pastorates will be announced in January or February next year with the implementation for July 1, 2027. What we proposed will probably be changed between 25%-40%. That is all a good thing! More eyes and more insights from more people!

So when you hear other people talking that things have already been decided, that is not true and you can tell them that! When people say they know...they don't know. When they say this place or another will close, it might be true only because of the challenges the parish is experiencing now and really can't exist as a vibrant parish in the future. But that has not been decided now! Will there be plenty of changes? Yes. Might some churches that presently have Sunday Masses now might not have them in the future? Yes, but we don't know who. Will today's parishes lose their present pastor come July 2027? Certainly! All of us priests have been told to expect a change (with some exceptions) come July 2027. Has anything been decided...NO!!

The three days were long, tiring, and challenging, but also filled with hope for the good things to come! So many dioceses have gone through similar restructuring with renewed, stronger, more vibrant parish life and Sunday Masses. Let us continue to pray for an openness to the Holy Spirit for the good of the Church in Southeast Michigan. ** Today we begin Catholic Schools Week. It is still a source of excellent education and formation. This is certainly true at our school. We have some of the highest scores in the whole Archdiocese. Come check us out!

Have a blessed week!
Msgr. Gary Smetanka

Prayer for Archdiocesan Restructuring

Come, Holy Spirit.

Make your presence known as we restructure the parishes and ministries of our archdiocese.

Be our light on the path we walk together.
Help us hear your voice
in the quiet of our own hearts,
in the wisdom of others,
and in the world around us.

We know you are with us
in every step of the process.
Give us clarity, understanding, and direction.
In all things, help us share the light of your love. Amen.
